by Padraic O'Hare

6 X 9" -- 168 pages

This is an excellent introductory resource for college courses on religion and inter-religious relations. Also excellent for those who are interested in the connections between Jewish and Christian faith traditions.

Following an in-depth look at both traditions, O'Hare emphasizes the centrality of contemplative prayer. He shows with rare eloquence and reverence that the new way into the "holy of holies" is through the prayerful encounter of believers who approach the mystery of God differently, but recognize together the one God.
